COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The DP history course is a world history course based on a comparative and multi-perspective approach to history. It involves the study of a variety of types of history, including political, economic, social and cultural, and provides a balance of structure and flexibility.

The course emphasizes the importance of encouraging students to think historically and to develop historical skills as well as gaining factual knowledge. It puts a premium on developing the skills of critical thinking, and on developing an understanding of multiple interpretations of history. In this way, the course involves a challenging and demanding critical exploration of the past. Teachers explicitly teach thinking and research skills, such as comprehension, text analysis, transfer, and use of primary sources.

There are six key concepts that have particular prominence throughout the DP history course: change, continuity, causation, consequence, significance and perspectives.¹

The emphasis of the IB History HL Year 1 is History of the Americas. The IB History HL Year 2 course emphasizes 20th century conflicts, including the socio-economic contexts of the time.

COURSE PURPOSE:

The aims of the DP history course are to enable students to:

- Develop an understanding of, and continuing interest in, the past
- Encourage students to engage with multiple perspectives and to appreciate the complex nature of historical concepts, issues, events and developments
- Promote international-mindedness through the study of history from more than one region of the world

¹ IBO, Diploma Programme Subject Brief Individuals and societies: History--higher level, 2015

- Develop an understanding of history as a discipline and to develop historical consciousness including a sense of chronology and context, and an understanding of different historical perspectives
- Develop key historical skills, including engaging effectively with sources
